How do I get started?

You will need to sign up for a Gmail account. Through Gmail, you will be able to track communications as well as comments consolidated into one place and you can separate this from personal correspondence. Gmail is still catching on to most within the internet world but it has proved to be very convenient as well as easy to use. Google will walk you through the entire process.

What should I blog about?

Once the Gmail account is set up, figure out what you want to blog about. You need to focus on one idea primarily because your goal should be to drive internet traffic to your blog site. You need to be specific with the subject on your blogs. General Blogs are posted everywhere on the internet and you do not want to merely be one of many blogs writing about nothing. You will need to figure out what your interests are and what you feel passionate about. What are your skills or strong beliefs? Once you have figured these things out, congratulations, you have just created your niche, which is a very important step in determining what your blog site will about.

How many blogs should I post?

Now that your niche has been chosen, you will want to set up your blog. One of the easiest ways to perform this is with using Googles program titled Blogger.com. These websites are not difficult to use and can even prove fun while setting them up. Once you are ready to go, you may begin blog posting. On average, you should be posting minimally one blog a day on this website. This keeps your blog new while enticing people to come back and read your material. You want visitors to keep coming back to your blog site who want to read your material.

How do I actually make money with this?

Once you get the hang of posting your blogs on a daily basis, you will need to set up AdSense on your blog. This is yet again a free service offered by Google, which allows you to place ads on your blog site. One of the best things about this service is that automated. Each time someone clicks on your ads you will earn a little bit of money. It will not initially be a lot of money however, as your blog site becomes more popular with more people visiting your blog site, you will increase the clicks on your blog page. This is the most easy and most fun way to make money from the confines of your home. It is definitely worth trying it. This process is free while showing you that you have nothing to lose.
